Patience is a virtue that only few possess, I am one of the few.

Life Experience

In high school, Carol had a class that taught us how to read the Stock Market from the New York Times. She wanted to learn more, but did not come from an environment that held that kind of knowledge. Carol was able to invest funds through a program with the State of New Jersey, where she was employed for 34 years. She would watch the market again and saw her money grow with patience for her entire career with the State of New Jersey.

Carol has held many different jobs along the way, which lead her to work for The Princeton Group of Oxford Harriman & Company. Carol landed her dream job where her love for watching the market is exciting.

Financial Freedom

Carol has always been wise at looking towards her future financially. She has made it her life's goal to help ensure as many people as possible in her circle understand what "Generational Wealth" means.

Outside the Office

Carol is the proud mother of two. She enjoys traveling as often as possible. Carol is a natural care giver, and she loves her elders. She enjoys spending time in their homes listening to past stories of their life. Carol has had the same 7 friends for her entire lifetime. Spending time with family is priceless. Cooking and baking, creating arts and crafts and reading is what she enjoys. Long walks start her day, and long walks end her day.
